

OUR SIGNATURE EECP® METHOD

EFFECT ON LYMPHATIC SYSTEM

EECP® has been shown to improve the function of the lymphatic system. The lymphatic system, part of the circulatory system, is a network of conduits called lymphatic vessels that carry clear fluid (lymph) unidirectional toward the heart. It is highly important to overall health and the immune system. Its job is to pull harmful toxic waste from the blood, organs, muscles, and tissue for excretion by kidneys. To eliminate toxicity from the lymphatic system, people use massage, trampolines and other natural muscle contractions. The squeezing mechanism of EECP increases shear force of reversed blood flow. EECP:

- Is a powerful cleansing mechanism for the lymphatic system
- Strengthens the body's immune system so you can fight off viruses and bacteria
- Uses sequential squeezing of the lower legs to detox the whole lymph system from the organs through the pathways. This rhythmic pumping eventually drains lymphatic fluids from toxins that would otherwise remain and decreases inflammation and swelling
